

Frontline News – August 2015

Inside This Issue:

Allison
Taking Territory
with Brilliant
Events

Developing Your
Destiny / TWC
Training Day

TWC Testimony
Graham at Sunrise
Christian Center
Everett, WA

Leadership Summit
July 2-5, 2015

TWC Testimony
Graham at
Prophetic Hope
Conference
Le Sueur, MN

TWC Testimony
Graham at
Chosen Camp
Suffolk, England

TWC FB Dialogue

Member Spotlight
Lisa Smidt

Taking Territory with Brilliant Events: Anaheim 2015

In just over eight weeks, hundreds of people will gather in Anaheim for our next Brilliant Event: “Developing Your Destiny: In the Here and Now.” But for us, this is not a future event, but part of our Warrior Class life now. The teams assigned to these meetings are already praying, but...

It's time to actively prepare for Anaheim.
There is significant territory on offer that is worth contesting.
And amazing majesty to be encountered in this good fight.

Brilliant Events are different than other conferences - and they require of us a proactive focus. The vision we have for these times goes far beyond just another set of amazing messages from Graham, our Warrior Class Training Days together or even the worship.

Brilliant Events are a territory in and of themselves.

The value for excellence. The passion for worship as the main event of eternity... and to bring that piece of heaven to earth now. The lens for the teaching that is one of divine deposit for a continuing life with God. These sessions are never an ending, but the beginning of a process meant to establish new truth, not only in individuals, but in the corporate Body of Christ.

And then there's the atmosphere. We are the ones who get to set it, which is so different from going into another church or event center. We are creating an environment that reflects our key question in The Warrior Class: What is Possible...?

What is possible when people come into an atmosphere prepared by intercession, so that what is taught is “caught” as much as it is understood?

- What is possible when the worship and teaching are woven together in language, mindsets and Kingdom passion?

- What is possible in creating an environment for the excellence that Jesus deserves?
- What is possible if times of gathering were part of life with God, no longer just “events”?

It's not that other conferences aren't good, or that significant, powerful breakthroughs don't happen in other places. But there is a DNA in Brilliant Events that *takes Kingdom territory, establishing a new, more brilliant perspective for large gatherings of the corporate Body of Christ and what their purpose is.

The Kingdom impact of Brilliant Events is why they are so wonderfully, gloriously contested by the enemy and why the potential for majesty is so great.

We love this fight. And we've learned a lot about waging it. This year is no different, so let's come up higher and fully engage now in worshipping, rejoicing and praying with God for all that is in His heart to be fully manifest in Anaheim: in the worship, in Graham, in us and in the atmosphere.

Let's stand and call in those future champions to be present in the here and now of this gathering.

For the room to be filled with people who aren't interested in business as usual, but are hungry for a brilliant future today.

Let's look at the territory on offer in this fabulous fight - and for the impact of “Developing Your Destiny” to be high on the Richter scale of heaven coming to earth.

Let's invite our friends, share the posts on our personal Facebook pages and even consider joining us if you are not already. Once again, TWC's presence is already a significant number of the registrations. Our Training Days will be amazing. Come!

From now until the first week of October,
we will be posting weekly prayer targets in our monthly Intercession
Update and on The Warrior Class Facebook page.

About this time two years ago, Graham asked us to join him in the fight for Mind of a Saint, and we just kept right on going though the four Brilliant Events of last year. Nothing has changed. The war continues and it's one of our tastiest fights. Lots of upgrades are on offer for us individually and corporately - don't miss them!

Thanks for being Warriors with passion,
Allison

TWC Training Day
Thursday, October 15, 2015 - 8:30 am - 4:00 pm

Sign-up with Teresa: admin@twclass.org

An email with specific information about the TWC Training Day will be sent to those who have signed-up.

Leadership Training
Wednesday, October 14, 2015 – 10:00 – 5:00 pm

Open to all Leaders, Team Partners and for those who have gone through Leadership Development Training.

Everett WA - Sonrise Church "Powerfully Prophetic" Conference

July 16-19, 2015

by Doris Chapman
Warrior Eagles Team

Dr. Dan C. Hammer
Sonrise Christian Center

Graham Cooke

Graham began the weekend with sessions about the Old Covenant and New Covenant view of prophecy. His humor had everyone disarmed. He did a prophetic blessing for people who are called to do deliverance and for Seers.

Saturday morning he reminded us that the Good News is that judgment has been suspended because of the cross. The attendees were a hungry group. When he said that poverty has nothing to do with money, it has to do with living with meager possibilities.... You could have heard a pin drop.

Graham talked about how reading the Bible in a year is the most ridiculous thing he has ever heard of. Was it written in a year? Was it written in order? He said, 'Reading the Bible is necessary to find your inheritance word.' He asked if anyone did not have an inheritance word and many people stood.

On Saturday morning, he used Isaiah 61 to define true Apostolic ministry. Taking people from ashes to beauty, from mourning to gladness, from fainting to praise; that we receive a double portion for shame, and everlasting joy for humiliation. That the call of the Apostolic is "to rebuild cities and to gather in places where the enemy thinks he is lord." If you are part of a franchise (speaking about Apostolic networks) you only own a part. If you are a steward, you own it all! "If you build a franchise, kingdom decreases." This is not about defending turf, it is about authenticity. People are placed in your arena because God trusts you with their freedom.

On prophecy: "Prophecy interrupts patterns of thinking." ..."Prophecy ends need for prayer." Now you have a promise and that is money in the bank. You can trade that in on the answer to your prayers. Prophecy IS the answer. "Go after it – don't wait around for it."

On Saturday night, Graham prophesied about the low places.

"Trust your heart towards Me.
Don't put Me on a high place; let Me be in a low place with you.
Sometimes God is your keeper; sometimes he is your healer.
In all things, it is still grace."

He called up those that were in low places – 75% of the audience stood. He declared a spirit of wisdom and revelation over us, and redefined hope – astonishing expectation of God. If you are in Christ, so are your circumstances. "God schedules conflicts," then calls you up to your inheritance word.

If I were to describe Graham's words this weekend I would say "Palpable" - as defined: "clear to the mind, plain to see, able to be felt."

LEADERSHIP SUMMIT

July 2-5, 2015

What did God upgrade most in how you see yourself as a leader?

God is working on upgrading me in so many ways that it is hard to narrow down “as a leader.” I think living authentically, asking questions in the process and exploring without needing to know the final answer are highlights for me. Relational connections, enjoying being in the moment and pursuing God intentionally for the instead.

I think God is reinventing how I see myself as a leader. Less in my own strength and more from heaven's perspective; more lighthearted, more amazed and astonished, more captivated by his ability to lead through me without my effort or even my awareness.

-Libby Kinkead
Int'l Team Leader

My voice. This was huge because His joy became my strength as I discovered not my voice but His voice through me. And there is a difference. He was faithful to give me the words to share. He opened up at least two of my inheritance scriptures to say “this is who you are.” Luke 1:17 having to do with my voice and 1Peter 5:6 as my keeper and the One who exalts in due time. I stepped into a new level as a leader as my ceiling became my new floor. Fear of man was displaced with the Joy of the Lord. A key piece in all of this for me is that it is ok to be right where you are, flaws and all. Yet we must know that He’s got plans to move us forward in His perfect timing.

- Madeline Rooney
Lead Coach

That as a leader my values are actually being expressed in my interactions with our team and in life in general, and that they are more Christ-like than I had thought. What I have seen from the beginning continues to today the community and fellowship of people sharing their walk with Christ, and recognizing that in the people of TWC you spend time with.

- Mark Barber
Pioneer Team Leader

Leadership Summit 2015

by Jimetta Mayne
Lead Coach

Faith Donaldson, who organized our time together welcoming everyone!

"I could not have imagined a more excellent way to celebrate the 4th of July weekend than to be with our Warrior Class Leaders!

Our time together was better than any fireworks show in the nation because each unique Leader displayed brilliant radiance and color.

We were given freedom to explore new territory and we went exploring! We worshiped, played, and discovered upgrades in our leadership. We laid down subtle obstacles, which hold us back from being the dynamic Leaders we were created to be. We picked up our identities as TWC Leaders as Papa's Pearls of Great Price and moved out with new vision.

It was a weekend none of us will ever forget."

Faith Donaldson
Director of Leadership

The Leadership Summit in Colorado was spectacular! It was one of connection, laughter, understanding, games, intimacy, revelation, vulnerability and great joy! Faith organized our time together and facilitated the weekend, Thank you Faith! She did a fabulous job, partnering with Holy Spirit orchestrating our time together and setting the tone the first evening.

We are so grateful for Bob Book and his anointing to creating a thin place between heaven and earth, allowing us all to engage and enjoy the beautiful presence of the Lord.

The mornings were dedicated to teaching and brainstorming, the afternoons were ones of fun, games and relaxation, with the evenings being a time of intimacy and encounter. It truly was a tasty smorgasbord of the Kingdom.

Allison brought some great questions to the table and got us working together in the mornings with defining the values of TWC leaders. Each Lead Coach brought something to the table of who they are, what they are currently walking through, as well as their passions.

The creativity of sharing was vulnerable, real and "off the charts wonderful." Madeline Rooney rocked the house with her vulnerability, of sharing her process and Joe shifted and upgraded us all with passion to pursue Identity within our teams. A possible boring technical understanding of the "Nuts and Bolts of TWC," was taught through a game of Jeopardy, making it memorable and FUN! Brilliant Kelly! The Roundtable skit of a Q & A with Allison and Graham, fabulously done by Kelly Megonigle and Joe Gray, with a mock audience that had to deliver an attendee (Allison) by speaking tongues over her speaking out, "She came on a Honda! She came on a Honda," was hysterical and delightful.

Cindy Bullis up to bat!
Madeline Rooney pitching, Dale Shannon and Mark Barber outfield.

Jimetta Mayne reading Dale Shannon her encouraging word in the upper room.

Libby's enthusiasm and creativity with her afternoon games, brought fun, laughter, competition and great collaboration. We got to experience childlikeness through an obstacle course of squirting water guns, dropping and rolling, cartwheels, chewing bubble gum and blowing a bubble, jump rope, batting a ball, and much more. The outcomes were surprising, and all were cheered for and celebrated for their grand attempts. One of the highlights for me was watching Faith, Cindy and Teresa compete with a game of "Chubby Bunnies." Impressive ladies!

The evening encounters in our "upper room" was powerful. Graham's encouragement from Portland's, "Making a Prophetic Impact", to step into a new experience with the written prophetic word, got activated, and the outcome was encouraging, memorable and to many, a defining moment in their relationship with God.

One evening, I brought an activation where we were given the privilege of honoring one another's stories. It was one of intimate vulnerability and celebration, giving us glimpses of the Champions we are journeying with. The final night, with Bob Book facilitating worship, created an atmosphere of God's saturating love. We intimately encountered God and received new inheritance words over our lives, as well as a word from Allison. We culminated the evening with powerful prayer over Graham. It was so difficult to go away from the atmosphere in the room.

We all walked away from the weekend, grateful for all Graham has imparted to us individually and as a community, determined to support and pray for all God is doing through his life and ministry. We reveled in the joy of getting to know one another more intimately, leaving encouraged, lifted, and inspired to valiantly continue this journey with one another and to explore the greatness of God.

- Jimetta

A Glorious Time!

By Rebecca Schwab
Discovery Team

Left to right:
Wendy Smith, Doris Chapman, Cindy Bullis, Brandon Beebe, Dale Shannon, Kristy Lindvall and Diana Gray.

“A leader in TWC is someone who will rise up as a Warrior in love, grace and joy with those that are moving through the training. To help others in this wonderful TWC journey they help to encourage as they walk through the process we walked through.”

What a glorious time! Permission was granted to come into a higher level with the Lord and to receive ALL that He had for me as I dove deeper into His presence and left our reality behind to discover His reality.

In one of the sessions, Alison put us into groups and we were to answer the question of what values we feel a TWC leader should have. In our group we had some great and different answers, we all answered according to what is valued in our own hearts, but two of the main themes were humility and respect. Humility is being able to think less of yourself and more of others. As a leader, humility is key, being able to see others needs first, implement those needs and this will bring the team together. The team will feel important, valued and cared for. Respect goes hand in hand with humility. In respecting someone, you make them feel like they matter, their thoughts matter and they are important to you. It brings a culture of honor, allowing the person to be who they are, help them grow up into who they are in Christ and along the way, continue to encourage them in their journey.

A weekend of love and grace, permissions granted to become and grow higher with our Papa God and to come together as a team to encourage, love, play and grow with God.

- Rebecca

Prophetic Hope Conference

First Love

Le Sueur, MN

July 23-25, 2015

While Luke Holter was a prodigal son, his parents prayed Graham Cooke would speak into his life. God answered their prayer & then some. Luke & Graham now minister together at conferences like these!

Prophetic Hope Conference

By Kelly Megonigle

Lead Coach

It is always a joy to hear Graham "live" as well as share the time with other TWC'ers and as always a trip to MN provides an abundance of joy! I went with TWC intel in hand and it was fun to see what God does.

One of the things I keyed in on was atmosphere; knowing that our boots on ground, partnered with the intercession that has already watered that ground is a very specific thing we can press into and share.

The first evening there was great enthusiasm. But then, a bit of a shift was called for. During worship, we were praying and worshipping, Graham spoke about the New Man and all the joys and privileges for this upgrade in thinking. The next meeting there was a definite turnabout in atmosphere, a great breakthrough was made, and the difference could be felt. The people engaged more during the teaching, you could hear laughter and agreement as well as some deep thinking as we spent time in wonder at the Grace of God and the promises He has given us! As always, it is a tremendous privilege to be with this company of people on this journey, making an impact!

- Kelly

Testimony by Angela Taylor Int'l Team

Report on Chosen Camp, Suffolk, England

August 5-9 2015-08-09

Armed with the Prayer Points that TWC sent out for this assignment, I went to the Camp expecting great things and hoping to meet Graham and Theresa.

Graham took the first session on Wednesday night talking about transformation and how God is making us in His image, for us to be exactly like Him. How he plans to take us outside our comfort zone and that as everything goes to the cross it emerges differently. Death is the starting point for life. Not only is my life changed but as I begin to see people as God sees them, I become a life changer too. My 'old man' is dead!

Graham then picked up the theme again by encouraging us to work on the new man, not the old man. We must seek the Lord as we are His habitation, and it is His grace that enables us to become the person that God sees when He looks at us. God sees us through the lens of Jesus, in the fullness of Christ. God sees what's missing from what we are becoming. We need to change our mindset from defeat and negativity to a righteous mindset that can only focus on what's new. To get victory over the old man we need to learn to be an overcomer in all situations, to find out what Jesus is praying until we become "more than a conqueror." Only the Truth will set us free. Identity is the key to transformation.

On Friday morning Graham picked up the theme that prophecy is all about how God sees us. That God doesn't talk to us, He talks in us. We pray with God, not towards God. He then beautifully expounded on Grace from Eph 1:3-8 sharing that grace is the empowering Presence of God that allows me to become the person that God sees. He talked about being given promises and that when we get a promise from God that is the end of prayer and the beginning of proclamation. He said that you "confess" a promise, you 'declare' it to the enemy, and you "proclaim" it to heaven. We exult in the fact that God is wonderful towards us. We exult in His glory. We give thanks until we become thanks. If we practice exultation as a way of life, we'll be permanently excited! Grace is the place of our empowering. No-one loves us like God, no-one delights in us like God. Grace is a ruling power. Grace is about who we are, who we choose to be and how we show up.

In the evening Graham concluded by taking Eph 1:3-11 and Rom.8:14-17, 29-30. God initiates everything and we respond. Our performance comes after God has initiated something first. Father God is looking at Jesus in us and asking, "What do you need?" We are heirs as children. Ask and keep on asking. The world needs us to come into our inheritance, and our inheritance always comes in the form of a promise. Going into the wilderness is about getting the next part of our inheritance. The wilderness is where God takes us when he is happy with us!

He then spoke from Ps 91. He encouraged us to examine and practice meditation. He said that God delivers us from fear of warfare, and that we would learn to stand up under religious oppression. Intimacy with the Lord is the most intimidating thing about us on the battle field. That we need a majesty mindset to win a battle and Jesus never loses. Victory is about getting over ourselves, getting over the “old” man and taking on the mind of Christ.

Saturday morning finished with a celebration of what God had done and is going to do. Both Graham and Steve shared briefly and to summarize:

- We are called higher to go further.
- We are called to be the resurrected life in the church.
- The ashes of our journey are the beauty of our future.
- A seed has to die in order to become what it is destined to be.
- In the place of restraint is the fullness of the discovery of who we are called to be.
- Press into God for the fullness of transformation; inside the Spirit is unlimited infinity.
- God only deals with the new man.
- Holiness is not about dealing with sin, it's about loving righteousness.
- Be renewed in the spirit of your mind, by becoming God-conscious.
- Become involved with Who Christ is for you, in you and through you.
- Live from that place of revelation and you will receive new experiences of God's lovingkindness and grace.

Love and blessings,

Angela Taylor
Int'l Team

Fill in the blank. The best part of my Level 1 Training is _____.

Christine Anne Taylor

leaving the past behind (unstrapping that huge baggage from my back that I was carrying around with me) and instead taking the hand of my beloved and stepping into a glorious future. The real cool thing was I brought people with me (family) <3

3 hours ago · Like · 3

Lecia Warner Retter

Relishing in being completely, overwhelmingly, magnificently, wonderfully, mind-blowingly loved.

3 hours ago · Like · 2

Ruth Bigham

I love who I am, who I am becoming and where this journey is taking me.

3 hours ago · Like · 2

Rita Poole

Learning I am a much loved child and nothing I do can change that brought me freedom to fearlessly look at who I am in Christ.

3 hours ago · Like · 2

Peggy Skutt

Learning to overcome negativity through the rest which was a huge help then in getting my identity. I had no idea how God saw me, Peggy. It was liberating.

3 hours ago · Like · 1

Mary Miller

The acceleration was like moving at the speed of light. It was a dream come true and it changed EVERYTHING! So blessed.

2 hours ago · Edited · Like · 1

Lisa Smidt

Understanding God's great desire for me to discover my identity, and understanding there is nothing I can do to make Him love me more, and nothing I can do to make Him love me less. My placement in Christ is all about His desire, not my performance.

3 hours ago · Like · 2

Victoria Boyd

... the acceleration that came during the process of bringing everything together into my identity statement and crafted prayer, and the immediate release and upgrade once I submitted it. Literally the day I submitted Level One, there was an immediate breakthrough and release in my circumstances, and it was as though the Lord breathed on my identity and gifts to bring increase. There was also a moment as though the lights turned on, as I looked at my identity statement and my list of dreams, and realized the two weaved beautifully together into prophetic insight into my future.

23 minutes ago · Unlike · 1

SusaleeandBill Sasser

Establishing more deeply my true identity

Just now · Like

Join the TWC Dialogue on Facebook!

Member Spotlight: Lisa Smidt

My Identity Statement

- I know who I was born and named to be, "Warrior with God as my oath."
- I am chosen and I am content to sit and worship at the feet of My Beloved.
- I am a releaser of joy and peace, who carries the refreshing Spirit of God into battle.
- I am a Joshua, courageously claiming every place I set my feet for the Kingdom.
- I am a pioneer and builder of bridges, uniting generations to harmoniously find the "One True North."
- I am an encourager. I see beauty and worth in others and speak God's heart to them in Psalms and hymns.
- I am hidden in Christ. Stealth. Powerful. A threat to darkness.

Psalm 63. Isaiah 42. Joshua 1.

I'm a daddy's girl.

Doesn't this picture of the Lion make you want to just throw your arms around His neck and lay your head on His shoulder? That's my daddy. I was created in His image. He dreamt about me, formed me and made plans to prosper me and not to harm me. Then He promised to finish the good work He began in me. That's what "becoming the beloved" means to me. It has nothing to do with my worthiness or performance. I am secure because God is good and His word is true.

My second greatest joy is my family. I am married and have five children. We have 2 adopted grandchildren and our first grandbaby was born in January. I have a large extended family, as God expands our hearts, there is always room for one more. I love to travel. I have had several adventures since becoming a member of TWC. I am amazed at the places He has taken me. My list of things I never knew I dreamt of doing is getting pretty extensive. I love my life and the adventure we are on. The more I trust in God and step out of my comfort zone, the more He expands my influence for The Kingdom.

Since joining TWC my thoughts and language have shifted toward blessing people more. Graham says "no one is safe from a blessing." I took that to heart. It is amazing to speak life and encouragement to people and visibly see chains drop off of them. They literally stand up taller as their posture changes when they learn about the love of The Father. I am beyond blessed to be able to deliver these love notes from Heaven.

Lisa Smidt